

N7D510

4 Days / $2200

Summary Description:

The course provides the information that developers need to know to successfully create and modify database applications in IBM Lotus Domino Designer 7. It provides an overview of the Lotus Domino 7 and Domino Designer 7 environments, introduces the elements and skills that are used in creating single-database Domino applications, describes how the formula language can be used to enhance the functionality of a Domino application, and explains how Domino applications can be secured.

Objectives

After completing this course students who are new to developing Domino applications should be able to develop and modify single database applications in IBM Domino Designer 7.

Topics Covered

- Exploring Lotus Domino 7 and Domino Designer 7
- Creating a Single Database Application
- Adding functionality to the application with the formula language
- Planning and Applying Security

Prerequisites

The prerequisites for this course include experience using the IBM Lotus Notes client, Web browser or both to access applications.

Recommendation: Experience developing one or more applications using other application development tools.

Audience

The target audience for this course is application developers who are new to developing Domino applications and who need to acquire the fundamental skills to develop and modify single database applications in IBM Domino Designer 7.

About WorkFlow Studios

WorkFlow Studios is a Premier IBM Business Partner, reseller of IBM software, and Education Center for IBM Software (ECIS).

Education Center for IBM Software (ECIS)

Our education business is driven by the recognition that the best training environment is one that creates hands-on learning opportunities that dive deep below the surface of the courseware. Our instructors are also consultants who share their expertise and experience in classroom demonstrations of real-world solutions.

Our commitment to you as a student of WorkFlow Studios is simple:

- You will learn from the best in a hands-on, first-class training environment
- We'll dive deep beyond the surface level of the courseware to share our insight and first-hand consulting experience with the topics you'll be learning
- We'll give you access to the latest and greatest technologies in our labs

WorkFlow Studios is authorized to teach the full-suite of IBM's Lotus and WebSphere brand curriculum.

Software Reseller

We are committed to helping organizations like yours establish a successful strategy for licensing software at a good value. In today's tightened economy, managing software as an asset rather than as an expense has become critical. Failing to carefully manage software assets can cost businesses several times more than the cost of the software itself. It's that simple. We understand how to make sure you get the most value for your money whether it's a new software purchase or a renewal.

Services

WorkFlow Studios delivers creative, innovative, and cost-effective IT services and solutions to support your business. Our approach to your business challenge is simple. We learn everything we can about your business, study the challenge from every angle, then propose an elegant solution designed to fit your budget, timeline, and the personality of your business. We'll follow that up with our proven experience to deliver on what we promise. Our services include:

- Application development
- System integration including Web services, EDI, host integration
- System administration and troubleshooting
- System architecture and design
- Staff mentoring
- Staff augmentation